V W W I BANQUET SATURDAY AT F.H. COUNTRY CLUB

The Walter S. Kerr Barracks and their Ladies Auxiliary are holding their sixth anniversary banquet at the Feeding Hills Country Club on Saturday night, December 2 at 6:30 p.m.

This annual affair of the Agawam World War I Veterans is held on the Saturday as near to November 6th as possible, but this year we are holding it in December because our State Commander George La Voice, founder and first Commander of the Walter S. Kerr Barracks was very busy during October and November and would not be able to attend this affair, so the members decided to have this affair in December as we all want our State Commander with us at that time.

It is the hope of the members of this World War I Barracks and Auxiliary that many townspeople will attend this affair and wish these OLD TIMERS the best of everything and give us their support in the future.

Information and tickets can be obtained from Mrs. Evelyn La Voice, 74 Springfield St., Tel. RE 4-8875 or Mrs. Caroline Lauritsen, 110 Suffield St., Tel. RE 3-3947.

Agawam COD Chapter Forming

A group of well known Agawam Democrats who are dissatisfied with the local party organization and the matter was discussed at a ganize under the banner of COD (Commonwealth organization of Democrats) a state-wide reform group within the Democratic party.

Former Selectman Andrew Gallano, a director of COD, stated today that the group had applied for permission to form a local chapter and the matter was discussed at a meeting of the Board of Directors held at the Sheraton Kimball this past Sunday. Approval for the forming of the new chapter was granted.

The names of the Democrats involved were not divulged by Mr. Gallano. However, he stated that the group would meet Monday, December 4, and at that time a chairman, secretary and an executive committee would be elected.

Mr. Gallano commented further that, "COD's state-wide purpose is to act as a catalyst in bringing energetic, intelligent and able people into the party organization and public office. It will make timely statements on matters vitally affecting party organization, redistricting, election laws, and party conventions. They intend to attract loyal but dissatisfied Democrats, and encourage and assist them to form local COD chapters in those communities, such as Agawam, where the local Democratic town and ward committees are either non-existent or weak and ineffectual."

ADVENT MEN'S COMMUNION AT ST. DAVID'S SUNDAY

This coming Sunday, December 3rd, will be the first Sunday in Advent, ushering in the new church calendar year. Traditionally on this date the men and confirmed boys of the church gather for a corporate Communion service and breakfast, the service being at 7:00 a.m. The theme of Advent is spiritual preparation for the coming of the Christ Child and this theme will be the subject of the sermon given by the Vicar.

Lieutenant Linwood R. Wren, an officer of the Episcopal Church Army, will be the breakfast speaker. Lt. Wren resides in Milford, Mass., and he has a son who is a priest of the church. He will speak on the subject of the Church Army and tell of the goal and life of that order.

The Church Army is a fellowship of the Laity of the Episcopal Church, men who have banded together to serve the Church in a full time lay ministry. The Church Army began in England in the year 1883, the order being founded by a Priest of the Church, the Reverend Wilson Carille. Teams of laymen were trained to go out among their fellows and to witness for Christ and His Church as evangelists and social workers in the industrial and rural areas of late Victorian England. In 1925 a team of Church Army evangelists came to the United States and organized branches in this country. The American branch upholds the principles of lay evangelism and all members of the order are assigned social work in congested urban areas and in rural districts.

The breakfast arrangement and promotion is being headed by the Keyman of the Parish, Mr. Warren Roberts and his two assistants, Mr. Joseph Guy and Mr. J. Aubrey Wells.

During the four weeks of Advent the traditional Advent wreath, containing four purple candles surmounted on a laurel base will hang over the sanctuary. Sunday the first candle is lit and each succeeding Sunday an additional candle is lighted. At the conclusion of the services this Sunday, each family will receive a home Advent wreath. These are placed on the dining room table and at the evening meal the proper candles are lit, Grace then being said and the Collect for the day being recited.

way back when . . . THE ASHLEY FUND

. . . by Edith LaFrance

In 1826 Deacon John Ashley of West Springfield gave a portion of his estate for promoting the education of youth within the town, of which Agawam was then a part. The fund was intended, not to relieve the town of its rightful obligations but to provide additional learning.

Terms of the will: No district shall be entitled to, or receive any of the annual dividend unless their instructors possess the qualifications and produce evidence of good moral character as required by the laws of the state, and unless they shall daily make use of the Holy Scriptures as a school book, and shall daily address the throne of grace in prayer with the scholars. If ever the town shall be divided, those parts which withdraw shall no longer be entitled to take any of the fund.

The Statute of June 2, 1789, Section 4, says in effect that the duty of teachers is to teach that virtues will preserve and perfect a republican constitution and secure the blessings of liberty and promote future happiness, and that their corresponding vices will lead to slavery and ruin. The virtues were "piety, justice, and a sacred regard for truth, love to their country, humanity, sobriety, industry and frugality, chastity, moderation and temperance, and those other virtues which are an ornament of human society and the basis upon which the republican constitution is constructed." (In that year when George Washington was elected president, the future success of the new government was much in the minds of the people).

Section 5 of this state law ruled that "no person shall be employed as a school master unless he shall have received an education at some college or university, or unless he shall be certified by a learned minister, well skilled in Greek and Latin, settled in the town where the school is to be taught or two other ministers in the vicinity."

Section 9 states that teachers of the younger children must be certified by minister or selectmen and must be qualified to teach reading (and writing if contracted for) and to teach piety and virtue and decent behaviour.

The funds received for compliance with these rules provided substantial help. District 8, first financial record, received $63.84 from the town and $42.26 from Ashley fund. (Yearly budget). In 1837, from the State $8.16, from Ashley fund $52.20, drawn on the town for 71 scholars $86.26.

At each annual meeting was included the vote;—"to abide by the rules of the Ashley fund." The districts received this help from 1827 to 1855 when Agawam became a separate town.

Necessary College Qualifications

By David Skolnick, Guidance Director to Agawam High School

SELECTING A COLLEGE

There are more than 2200 colleges in the United States, so the decision as to "which one" can be confusing. As the decision is a major one and will help shape the future of your boy or girl, it should be made only after you have investigated the types of colleges and given careful consideration to which college would be most appropriate for your boy or girl. Your help and guidance and the help and guidance of others (the guidance counselor, teachers, friends) is necessary, but remember, the final choice should rest with the boy or girl, for it is their individual needs which must be satisfied. Their needs will also dictate what type of college should be attended: private college, church-related college, technical college, state university, community college, or junior college.

In choosing a specific college, you should ask these questions:

1. Is it accredited by one of the professional accrediting agencies?
2. Does it have a reputable faculty?
3. Does it enjoy qualified leadership and sound administrative policies?
4. Does it have a liberal scholarship policy?
5. Is it recognized by the honor societies?
6. Does it have adequate libraries and laboratories?
7. Does it have strong courses in the student's main interest?
8. Does it have adequate housing facilities?
9. Does it promote well-balanced programs of co-curricular activities?
10. Does it have a well-organized student personnel program?
11. Is there a reliable placement bureau available?

How do you go about finding the answers to these questions? There are three good methods which, used together, should give you a clear picture of the specific college your son or daughter is interested in.

The first way you can find out about individual colleges is to write to them for their catalogs. These may also be obtained from the high school guidance office or from some public libraries.

A second method is to visit the campuses of the colleges you and your boy or girl are considering.

This should always be done, for it can eliminate much of the guesswork and, in some instances, prevent a future disappointment that can lead to failure. If you plan to visit, make an appointment with the admissions office and have the questions you want answered well in mind so that your time will be well spent. Remember also that the appointment is basically an interview of and for the prospective student, so he should do most of the asking and answering. In addition to the interview a tour of the campus will probably be arranged. Visitations should be made during the first five days of the week, as admissions offices are seldom open on Saturday or Sunday.

The third valuable source of information is the high school counselor. He is not only acquainted with the admissions procedures of many colleges, but he is aware of the experiences of many former high school graduates at some of the specific colleges your son or daughter has in mind.

In connection with the steps to be taken as outlined above, you should take a look at the young person's abilities, interests, and financial resources. These are basic to any college selection. In looking at your youngster seek answers to such questions as: What does his high school record indicate? What colleges are within the young person's reach scholastically? Do rank in class and intellectual potential indicate qualifications for colleges with stringent admission requirements or do they imply a college that admits students at a lower academic level? What career is your boy or girl interested in pur-suage? Can the family budget cover expenses at a high-cost institution or must your boy or girl limit his or her selection to a much less expensive school?

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER

By BILL CHIBA

The 1961 Bay State deer season, during which either shotguns or bows and arrows may be used, is from December 4 through 9. Legal shooting hours are from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. One deer of either sex may be taken by licensed hunters who have not previously taken a deer in Massachusetts during the current calendar year.

The bow season is over with, and we covered a lot of country unsuccessfully in search of a white tail. From what we observed there is more deer in evidence than last year. Some of the places we found I will put down here to give the gun hunter several choice places to hunt.

Beech Hill in Blandford has a sizable herd of deer this year, including the area around Phelon's orchard. Another hot spot is the power line next to Cobble Mountain Reservoir, running from Granville to Blandford. In Granville, the Blandford Road area has herd back in there. Last year it was barren. The Amos Case Road section in back of Beech Hill is a good bet. We saw three deer while hunting the area with the bow. Could not get a shot with the bow, but any one of the three would have been a cinch with the gun. The School House road right and left of route 57 has deer milling all over the place with several good size bucks being spotted. In the Quabbin section, as usual, deer are plentiful, and a good kill should take place the first couple days of the gun season. We saw evidence of deer in Huntington, Worthington hills and there is a good size herd in Montgomery. So there you are, if you don't get your deer this year, it certainly will not be the lack of deer in the Western part of the State.

Checking Stations

Voluntary deer checking stations will be operated on the first and last days of the open season in the same locations as last year. These are: Athol—junction routes 2 and 202 at Elray's cabins; Barre—on town common, junction of routes 32, 62 and 122; Belchertown—junction routes 9 and 202; Cape Cod—Sagamore rotary traffic circle; Pittsfield—junction routes 8 and 9; South Deerfield—junction routes 5, 10 and 15; Westfield—route 20, one-half mile east of the Woronoco-Westfield town line, at the Valley Green Drive-In restaurant; Shelburne—the "Sugar House", south of Shelburne Falls on route 2. The checking stations will be open between 10:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

Kenny Schinkel Fighting to Prove That He Now Belongs in the Nat. Hockey L.

By BUCKY O'BRIEN

The New York Rangers of the NHL are currently setting a tremendous pace in their bid to make the play-offs in April. The Rangers who weren't given the slightest chance by the so-called experts of the NHL, are in second place at this writing.

One of the big reasons for this early success of course is the great line of Andy Bathgate, Dean Prentice, and Earl Ingarfield plus acquisition of player coach Doug Harvey.

But there is still another reason and that is Kenny Schinkel the versatile right winger who played the so far and the New York brass appear to be sold on him now. He could be an asset to any club and if they give him a chance he will prove it.

Nothing pleases me anymore then to see this guy make good. He is a wonderful athlete and a real down to earth guy. There are a lot of pop off guys up there in the NHL so there should be room for a man who qualifies as both a gentleman and a hockey player. Kenny carries all these credentials and the fans who saw him fight his way up through the ranks at the Coliseum can well be proud of him. His name belongs in an NHL program.

KENNY SCHINKEL

latter part of the season right here in Springfield. Kenny, who was third in the Calder Trophy selections two years ago, now looks like he will be there to stay. The Calder Trophy goes to the outstanding rookie in the NHL.

Last year he started out pretty well and then his wife took sick. This proved to be a little too much for Kenny and it began to show in his play. So he was summoned back to Springfield to finish the season. Shortly after arriving in Springfield, his wife began feeling better and so did Kenny. Once his domestic problems were solved he was a new man and a new hockey player. In just 28 games here he bagged home 13 goals and 9 assists. Then in the Calder Cups he bagged five more in just eight games.

And now the 1961 season is here and Kenny is off to a flying start. He has four goals and five assists
